NEW QUESTION: 1

Security should ALWAYS be an all or nothing issue.

- A. False
- B. True for untrusted systems only
- C. True
- D. True for trusted systems only
- E. None of the choices.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

Security should not be an all or nothing issue. The designers and operators of systems should assume that security breaches are inevitable in the long term. Full audit trails should be kept of system activity, so that when a security breach occurs, the mechanism and extent of the breach can be determined.

NEW QUESTION: 2

Note: This question is part of a series of questions that use the same scenario. For your convenience, the scenario is repeated in each question. Each question presents a different goal and answer choices, but the text of the scenario is exactly the same in each question in this series.

Start of repeated scenario

You are a database administrator for a company that has an on-premises Microsoft SQL Server environment.

There are two domains in separate forests. There are no trust relationships between the domains. The environment hosts several customer databases, and each customer uses a dedicated instance running SQL Server 2016 Standard edition. The customer environments are shown in the following table.

End of repeated scenario

You need to configure the Contoso instance.

How should you complete the Transact-SQL statement? To answer, select the appropriate Transact-SQL segments in the answer area.

NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point
