NEW QUESTION: 1

What are some of the problems of how infrastructure was traditionally managed before Infrastructure as Code? (select three)

- A. Requests for infrastructure or hardware required a ticket, increasing the time required to deploy applications
- B. Traditionally managed infrastructure can't keep up with cyclic or elastic applications
- C. Pointing and clicking in a management console is a scalable approach and reduces human error as businesses are moving to a multi-cloud deployment model
- D. Traditional deployment methods are not able to meet the demands of the modern business where resources tend to live days to weeks, rather than months to years

Answer: A,B,D

Explanation:

Businesses are making a transition where traditionally-managed infrastructure can no longer meet the demands of today's businesses. IT organizations are quickly adopting the public cloud, which is predominantly API-driven. To meet customer demands and save costs, application teams are architecting their applications to support a much higher level of elasticity, supporting technology like containers and public cloud resources. These resources may only live for a matter of hours; therefore the traditional method of raising a ticket to request resources is no longer a viable option. Pointing and clicking in a management console is NOT scale and increases the change of human error.

NEW QUESTION: 2

Programs that help union members maintain their skills and competence in their field are called

- A. joint training programs.
- B. adult recertification.
- C. continuing education.
- D. corporate universities.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation: Joint training programs are administered by unions and management. Their purpose is to maintain the skills and competence of union members. These programs are typically only available to members of the union. Most of these programs focus on safety or skills. Some unions have partnered with nearby academic institutions to deliver joint training programs.
